Chief Vigilance Officer

Vigilance is not merely about preventing corruption but about fostering a culture of integrity, transparency, and accountability at every level of our organization. It is our collective responsibility to uphold ethical standards and ensure that honesty becomes the foundation of all our actions.

The role of vigilance is preventive as well as corrective. Through awareness, training, and adherence to rules, we can eliminate opportunities for misconduct and build a system that encourages fairness and trust. Every stakeholder must actively participate in this journey by reporting irregularities, following procedures diligently, and setting an example of integrity in day-to-day activities.

As Chief Vigilance Officer, I assure you that our Vigilance Department is committed to promoting a corruption-free environment, ensuring transparency in processes, and strengthening mechanisms that support good governance. Together, we can create an organization that not only achieves excellence but also earns the confidence and respect of society.

Let us pledge to remain vigilant, act with integrity, and contribute to building a stronger, ethical, and transparent institution.
